In 2013, the Ford Foundation will award 60 doctoral fellowships to early-stage graduate students in historically underrepresented ethnic groups. Applications are due November 14. Our panel, including UCSD faculty who have served as application reviewers for the Ford Foundation and a UCSD Ph.D. student who has been a Ford Foundation award recipient, will discuss the application process and how you can make your application competitive. Grad students in all departments are invited to attend.
